2.3. The use of the Qur'an in Legal Thinking, and its Relationship with the Hadiths, Ijma and Qiyas

- Use of Quran in Legal Thinking
 - Quran contains everything, it says "and we have sent down to thee a book explaining all things"
 - It is primary source of Islamic Law
 - Deals with theft, robbery, rebellion and murder. It says "We ordained therein life for life"
 - On war matters it talks about distribution of booty and fair treatment of prisoners
 - It lays down rules for social life, commerce, economics, penal laws and international relations
 - Family law deals with marriage, divorce and treatment of women, slaves and orphans. It says "Come not nigh to the Orphan's property"
 - Quran forbids unjust distribution of wealth
 - It forbids adultery, gambling, interest, bribes, and fraud as it says "Woe to those that deal in fraud"
- Relationship of Quran with Hadith
 - Hadiths are words and actions of Prophet(pbu)
 - They are 2nd primary source of Islamic Law
 - They explain the Quran, Hazrat Ayesha said "Life of Prophet(pbu) is an example of Quran"
 - It is used when the Quran is silent on a matter, e.g. inheritance given to grandmother is not mentioned in the Quran, but comes from Hadith
 - In Quran it is not told how to give Zakaat but hadith says "No charity tax is due on property less than 5 Uqaiya and no charity tax is due on fewer than 5 camels and no charity tax is due on fewer than 5 wasq"
 - Hadith also talks about how to pray, perform hajj and about impurities which is not explained in Quran, it says "Pay as you see me praying"
- Ijma
 - Ijma is consensus of opinion and is used when a matter arises which is not in Quran and Hadith
 - Secondary source of Islamic Law
 - He(pbu) said "My community will never agree upon an error"
 - IVF were allowed by ijma
 - Quran was compiled by ijma of companions
 - Ijma is of 3 types
 - Decision made from ijma can't contradict Quran e.g. people missed Friday prayer as they didn't hear azaan so Umar through Ijma introduced a 2nd azaan rather than allowing people to miss prayers
- Qiyas
 - It is last and secondary source of Islamic law
 - It means deriving a law from another law when a matter can't be solved by any Quran Hadith or ijma
 - Ayesha said wuzu is not permissible if flour dries on nails jurists used this to prohibit nail polish
 - It can only be done by leading jurists
 - allowed Mu'az bin Jabaal to use his own opinion if a matter arises which is not in Quran and sunnah
 - The method of qiyas is:
 - Asl: The teaching such as alcohol is khamar
 - Far: The problem such as are drugs khamar
 - Illa: linking the teachings drugs are like alcohol
 - Hukm: The judgement such as drugs are haram
 - Qiyas also can't cancel a teaching of Quran
